Discover Your Place in the World

Ezra Weinberg '03

Following Ezra Weinberg's graduation from Hampshire College with a major in conflict transformation, he went to Israel to put into practice what he had learned in theory about peacebuilding. Soon after he got to Jerusalem, he said, "initiatives I had heard about – these great success stories of Israelis and Palestinians getting together – were disintegrating. The region was, before my eyes, moving from a post-conflict zone to a conflict zone."

Seeking to enhance his knowledge of the field, Ezra enrolled in SIT's CONTACT: Conflict Transformation Across Cultures program. "I got support from the faculty, and I was able to be in touch online with peacebuilders around the world – anywhere there was conflict." The next year, he entered SIT's Programs in Intercultural Service, Leadership, and Management to earn a Master of Arts in Conflict Transformation.

SIT's experience-based educational model suited Ezra's learning style. "SIT asks you to internalize experiences and reflect on them. It asks you to challenge yourself and use that experience to challenge the world."

Ezra's experiences in Israel as a post-graduate and during his SIT internship with the Palestine-Israel Journal, convinced him that his future lay in applying his peacebuilding and conflict transformation skills from a religious perspective. He is currently studying to be a rabbi.

RALPH BUNCHE

Infinite Patience, Indomitable Will His Struggle for Peace and Justice

This reproducible teaching unit surveys the life of Ralph Bunche, United Nations member for over twenty years. In the lesson activities, students will analyze Bunche's negotiating methods and participate in simulations of his most famous interventions. After the 1948 assassination of UN mediator Folke Bernadotte, Bunche led an exhausting but ultimately successful negotiation marathon which ended the first Arab-Israeli war and earned him the 1950 Nobel Peace Prize. He also played a key role during the complex Congo crisis of 1960.

FROM CHAOS TO ORDER: ending hunger, injustice, and war

"War is often thought of in terms of military conflict.... But there is a growing awareness that an equal danger might be chaos—as a result of mass hunger, economic disaster, environmental catastrophes, and terrorism. So we should not think only of reducing the traditional threats to peace, but also of the need for change from chaos to order." —Willy Brandt

Twenty-five years ago the Brandt Commission, headed by former German Chancellor Willy Brandt, proposed measures to reduce the vast and unjust economic discrepancies between the developed and developing worlds. Their recommendations, published as North-South: A Program for Survival, were never implemented, and now the majority of the world's economies are in 'critical condition'. The resulting chaos has fueled age-old tensions, produced escalating acts of terrorism, and ignited new wars around the globe.

Because it is even more urgently needed in today's world, the Brandt plan has been updated and is being re-introduced by Dr. James Quilligan, former head of Brandt Commission Research, Inc. Dr. Quilligan presents an action agenda to address interrelated global issues from monetary policy and trade to hunger, human rights, and the environment.

This comprehensive plan is freely available at www.Brandt21Forum.info and answers such crucial questions as:

- ◆ Why we must first address the root causes of our crises
- ◆ Why current efforts cannot solve global problems
- ◆ Why restructuring the global economy is vital to everyone
- ◆ Why major relief for developing nations—a 'global Marshall Plan'—is the top priority

"We are resolved," says Dr. Quilligan, "that the world community must tackle its most urgent problems—as a whole and in one forum—or face more false starts, unfulfilled promises, and massive social breakdown. We urge you, as representatives of the AMUN Conference, and future leaders of government, business, and civil society, to envision a new economic framework based upon interdependence and cooperation, ensuring that the vital issues of development are linked together at last in a common agenda for the planet."

The Only Path to Peace

A message of hope in a time of chaos

The greed of a few has placed the entire planet at risk. More than 80% of the earth's food and resources is used and wasted by only 20% of the world's population — mainly those in developed nations. This inequality causes widespread hunger and poverty worldwide, and sows the seeds of social unrest, terrorism, war, and environmental degradation.

Sharing the earth's food and resources is the only way to justice and peace

For the survival of present and future generations, we must call for a just re-distribution of the earth's resources, so that all may have the basic necessities of life: food, shelter, health care and education.

We are not alone in our efforts

At this time of planetary crisis, a group of great spiritual Teachers has now returned to the everyday world to help us solve our most critical global problems. According to futurist Benjamin Creme, these Masters of Wisdom, led by Maitreya, the World Teacher, are here to inspire and guide humanity in the creation of a new civilization based on sharing and justice and, therefore, peace. Their open work in the world is about to begin.

In his ninth book, The Great Approach, Benjamin Creme describes the complete transformation of our chaotic world under the influence of the Masters.

UNCERTAIN SOIL: THE STORY OF UNITED NATIONS PEACEKEEPING

This one hour and 45 minute documentary film covers the history of the creation of peacekeeping and follows its evolution through the end of the Cold War. At that time, a new era of peacekeeping witnessed several early successes as the Cold War began to thaw; then a series of drastic failures overtook events. The film culminates with the acceptance of peacekeeping as a core activity of the UN. Sir Brian Urquhart anchors the story throughout the film. In-depth segments on Sierra Leone, Cyprus, Kosovo, and Western Sahara demonstrate the breadth and complexity of peacekeeping.

The goal of the film is to bring alive the dedication and sacrifices UN peacekeepers have undertaken in the name of peace, not for themselves but for the world.

The film is a production of ACUNS in cooperation with the Department of Public Information (DPI). ACUNS is very grateful to Under-Secretary-General Shashi Tharoor and Under-Secretary-General Jean-Marie Guéhenno for their support and encouragement in making the film possible. ACUNS greatly appreciates the financial support of the Better World Fund, the Newman Foundation, Soka Gakkai International, and the Arthur Ross Foundation.
