technology use, marketing, and expansion; 34 (c) Building basic and advanced computer skills in countries where computer skills are necessary for entrepreneurial ventures including Word, Excel, and PowerPoint 35 36 capacities in addition to programming skills; 37 (d) Developing knowledge of best and efficient practices to account for the costs 38 of starting a new business; (e) Implementing entrepreneurship programs that help to inform youth on fiscal 39 40 responsibility and the development of self-enterprise; 41 42 2. Calls upon Member States to create group-based forums on a regional and sub-43 regional level to foster interactive discussion between the local community and 44 successful entrepreneurs by: 45 (a) Giving successful entrepreneurs the opportunity to share their experience and 46 practices among fellow entrepreneurs; (b) Allowing aspiring entrepreneurs and members of the local community to pose 47 48 concerns and have their questions answered; 49 (c) Providing a means of networking and mentorship for new entrepreneurs with 50 established and successful businesspeople; 51 52 3. Encourages the promotion and training of enterprise facilitators that will be the 53 source of entrepreneurship expertise for the community; 54 55 4. Proposes the idea of utilizing crowd-sourcing models to facilitate the exchange of entrepreneurial knowledge among individual entrepreneurs: 56 57 (a) Shares experiences in resolving structural and social concerns related to the 58 distribution and payment of loans; 59 (b) Proliferates knowledge of skills specific to various entrepreneurial endeavors; 60 61 5. Suggests that Member States provide greater awareness regarding financial and 62 mentorship opportunities as well as legal assistance to new and existing ventures through: 63 (a) Advocating partnering with NGOs who can share legal information in their 64 forums: 65 (b) Suggesting greater use of entrepreneurial networking, informal crowd-66 sourcing and knowledge sharing models, and other networking opportunities; 67 (c) Promoting increased internet accessibility through advanced internet systems by Google and Space X; 68 69 70 6. Facilitates the establishment of small and medium enterprises with funding from community oriented financial groups, government subsidies and micro-finance 71 72 institutions: 73 74 7. Supports government projects which promote entrepreneurship including but 75 not limited to educational programs with funding from World Bank and International 76 Monetary Fund (IMF); 77

78 8. Recommends that these educational programs use mechanisms similar to 79 Competitive Innovation Programs (CIPs) within the European Commission in which projects are evaluated based on their feasibility and expected return, with the best project 80 81 being awarded grants to fund such projects; 82 83 9. Encourages Member States to introduce regulatory policies reducing barriers 84 of entry in local markets to prevent the monopolization of markets; 85 86 10. Suggests Member States review legal procedure and streamline various start-87 up costs to starting an enterprise while simultaneously remaining mindful of the need for 88 debt consolidation programs; 89 90 11. Encourages Member States to adopt non-biased policies that promote equal 91 access for entrepreneurs regardless of gender, age and religion; 92 93 12. Proposes that Member States introduce fiscal policies such as tax rebates to 94 venture capitalists who invest in small and medium enterprises to attract private 95 investment and work with NGOs who compile pools of various small and medium sized 96 enterprises in countries for entrepreneurs in which to generally invest; 97 98 13. Calls upon all Member States to reduce international trade barriers to facilitate 99 the sale of products from small and medium enterprises internationally with fair prices 100 and standards for their products; 101 102 14. Urges all Member States to adopt policies preventing unethical practices such 103 as dumping from multinational corporations, and to also provide protection to 104 entrepreneurs sending remittances by: 105 (a) Defining dumping as a corporation deliberately promoting the sale of its 106 products for the purpose of eliminating competitive markets through sales below the 107 firms' average costs; 108 (b) Including the deliberate promotion of corporate product sales below the firms' 109 marginal sales revenue in its definition of dumping; 110 111 15. Recommends the creation of an Entrepreneurship Investment Fund for the 112 purposes of increasing funding, loans and micro-financing opportunities and: 113 (a) Targeting the increase of entrepreneurship opportunities with these funds, 114 following the format of CIP loans and Small and Medium Enterprise loans; 115 (b) Proposing that Member States, as well as international actors like the World 116 Bank and IMF, contribute to the Fund to ensure funding levels remain adequate; 117 (c) Incentivizing loans for entrepreneurs in developing countries as well as to 118 encourage eco-entrepreneurship and social justice entrepreneurship, by modeling funds like the European Investment fund, to ensure that development is not only economically 119 120 profitable, but sustainable and socially beneficial; 121 (d) Fosters equality by loan practices that fairly distribute loans across minority 122 groups regardless of age, gender, and religion;

RES:1419

123 124 16. Encourages the implementation of physical infrastructural shifts to expedite 125 permitting processes among Members States, especially through reorganization that 126 specifically increases physical proximity between government entities handling business permitting processes for the sake of enhancing communication speed and removing 127 128 barriers to processing efficiency through:

129 (a) Recognizing the potential of infrastructural reorganization as an integrative 130 approach to business initiation and actualization through singular and explicit flat fees, 131 standardized permitting requirements, same-day inspection windows, and online forms of 132 approval notification in permit policy-making through collaboration with the United 133 Nations Information and United Nations Conference on Trade and Development;

(b) Actualizing these changes through the aforementioned financing mechanisms;

135

17. Supports improving Internet infrastructure, with transactional security in

136 137 mind, through international partnership with organizations such as Liquid Telecom for the

138 foundation of a web-framework fostering entrepreneurial market entry, web-based

139 marketing, increased points of sale, crowd-sourcing potential, and the introduction of 140 global competitive techniques such as reintermediation.
