Position Papers

Why to do them and how to submit them.

Greetings from the AMUN Secretariat. For the AMUN Staff, fall isn't all about pumpkin spice and Halloween, it's about Position Papers. By the end of October, the majority of participants will have submitted position papers on the topics under consideration for this year's AMUN simulations. But if you're new to AMUN, you might be asking yourself, why should we bother? This newsletter provides a few good reasons and directions for submission.

Why Should Your Delegation Write a Position Paper?

There are two types of position papers. The first is an internal document that is used to prepare for conference, familiarize yourself with the topics under debate and to plan your basic approach to these issues by detailing what your country would like to see accomplished. The other is a public position paper, which is submitted and made available to all conference participants. Your public position paper is your country's white paper on the topic, which outlines where you stand and what you're looking for. Public position papers allow representatives to get an idea of how to best approach debate in the committee by reviewing the work of their peers.

AMUN encourages the drafting of both types of position papers for three chief reasons. First, determining your country's position on a topic is your single, best way to prepare for Conference. A well drafted internal position paper will take some time to complete and will require research both into the topic itself and your country's historical position on the topic. Second, public position papers are your first interaction with the other members of your simulation. Finally, public position papers are a preparatory resource for your students as well. Reading the position papers of other members will allow you to see who is or isn't well-prepared to debate a topic, the state and bearing of historical allies or antagonists and to identify the members who most closely share your country's stated goals.

For more information about preparing a position paper, check out the relevant sections in the Issues at AMUN handbook available online.

How to Submit a Position Paper

First, determine who will enter your position papers. We strongly encourage you to have one person enter all of the position papers for a delegation at the same time. The process is not difficult, but it is optimized to be done in one session. We've copied instructions for submitting position papers below, but the instructions are also available in the Issues at AMUN handbook, available online.

Next, have all the position papers for the delegation easily accessible. We suggest having all of the delegation's papers in a single document with as little formatting as possible. Go to the position paper submission form. Enter the email address that AMUN has on file for your group. Read the instructions at the top of the page. Choose your country, then a committee, then a topic.

Paste the text of the correct position paper into the box and choose "save this paper and continue to next topic/committee" below the box.

- A. Please DO NOT paste the names of the representatives seated on the committee or the name of the topic in the form; the topic name will be generated by our form, and representative names are not appropriate for position papers.
- B. Double check that the committee and topic are correct before moving on; common errors include pasting in papers from a previous/different conference or pasting a paper in the wrong topic area.
- C. Please do not include any special formatting (including italicized, underlined or boldface type); links or other HTML coding; or bulleted lists. The submission form is not compatible with this formatting and it must be corrected manually by our staff.
- D. When you have entered all of your papers, choose "Finished entering papers, please save this paper and submit" at the bottom of the page. Your papers will NOT be recorded as submitted unless you complete this step.

Position papers for all delegations are due by 11:59 p.m., CDT on Thursday, 25 October 2018. Because of the time involved in reviewing and posting position papers to the AMUN website, late position papers will be accepted only until 5:00 p.m., CDT on Tuesday, 6 November 2018.

All position papers received by the 25 October deadline will be posted online by the end of the first week in November. Papers received after the 25th will be posted on a rolling basis.

Position Paper Award Eligibility

AMUN awards a Position Paper Award to all delegations that submit a complete position paper for each simulation on which the country is seated and for each topic in those simulations. To be eligible for an award, you must have your complete submission turned into the AMUN Secretariat no later than 11:59 p.m. CDT on 25 October. At minimum, a country will be required to turn in papers on the topics covered by the Concurrent General Assembly Plenary and all GA Committees, as well as any other simulation on which the country is seated. Position papers for the two topics in the United Nations Environment Assembly (UNEA) are encouraged if you are placing a representative on the committee, but these are not required to earn a position paper award. To confirm your committee assignments, please review your Delegation Committee Report.
